El triángulo actúa como un elemento dinámico y se ve reforzado por las dos patas traseras, que se acercan para dar estabilidad al asiento sin comprometer la sensación de ligereza que transmite la silla. Esta pieza es una reedición del proyecto de graduación del arquitecto italiano Tobia Scarpa en la Universidad de Venecia en 1959. Fabricada en nogal y fresno y con asientos tapizados en piel o tela.

The triangle acts as a dynamic element and is reinforced by the two back legs, which come together to give the seat its stability without compromising the feeling of lightness the chair transmits. This piece is a new issue of the graduation project by the Italian architect Tobia Scarpa at Venice University in 1959. Made from walnut and ash, with seats upholstered in leather or fabric.
